

Hyperspace labs, Inc.
19421 Phil Lane Cupertino, CA 95014

Letter of Recommendation

From: Stanislav Novikov, Founder & CEO, HyperSpace

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing this letter to strongly recommend Nikita Simakov as an exceptional Product Manager and product leader. As the Founder and CEO of HyperSpace, I had the privilege of working closely with him during a critical period for our company.

When Nikita joined HyperSpace, our product organization was facing serious challenges. Roadmaps were fragmented, product hypotheses were being tested without clear prioritization, and communication between engineering, design, and business stakeholders lacked structure. We were in need of someone who could not only bring order, but also set a new trajectory for growth.

From the very beginning, Nikita demonstrated an outstanding ability to identify user needs, frame hypotheses with precision, and prioritize initiatives based on both strategic value and feasibility. He restructured our product development processes, introduced clear metric-driven decision making, and aligned the entire team around a coherent vision. This shift had a transformative effect: velocity increased, product-market fit tests became systematic, and the quality of our launches improved dramatically.

One of his most notable achievements was the launch of new AI-driven features that not only differentiated HyperSpace in a competitive market but also brought measurable growth in user engagement and retention. He consistently drove the product from ideation to launch, ensuring we balanced speed with long-term scalability. His strong sense of product and user experience set a new standard inside the company.

Equally important, working with Nikita was a true pleasure. He combines strategic thinking with empathy, leadership with collaboration. He quickly earned the trust of both executives and team members, creating an atmosphere of ownership and accountability.

I can confidently say that Nikita Simakov played a pivotal role in the growth and evolution of HyperSpace. His impact was not only visible in numbers and product outcomes, but also in the maturity of our processes and culture. I highly recommend him for any leadership role in product management and have no doubt that he will continue to deliver outstanding results at the international level.

Sincerely,

Stanislav Novikov

Founder & CEO, HyperSpace

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Stanislav Novikov", written over a light gray background.